

FIVE WINNING
MENUS GIVENAll Show How Herald Market
Page Can Supply
Tempting Meals.

The five best menus based on The Herald market page last week, were submitted by Mrs. Robert F. Olds, 1600 Wyoming street; Mrs. J. H. Cavanaugh, 1109 Cotton avenue; and Miss Josephine Pease, 918 East Rio Grande. Mrs. Olds and Mrs. Cavanaugh each won two prizes, Mrs. Cavanaugh submitting five menus of exceptional merit. From The Herald market page, Mrs. Olds put her suggestions in very helpful form. Her dinner for four was as follows:

Oysters on the half shell.
Cream of celery soup.
Roast beef. Mashed potatoes.
Asparagus tips. Celery.
Mince pie. Coffee.
Price $12.00.

Articles Required.
All selected from market page of El Paso Herald for Friday:

1 pint fresh oysters 20c
3 bunches celery 25c
4 pounds rib roast, 15c lb. 60c
(U. S. Meat Market ad.)
Potatoes 5c
2 cans asparagus tips 20c
Butter, half pound 20c
Bread, 1 loaf 10c
Mince meat, 1 package 10c
Lard and flour for pastry 5c
Coffee 20c
Sugar 20c
2 lemons 5c

Three bunches of celery are bought. The roots and outside stalks are sufficient for cream of celery soup, leaving the inner stalks to be served. Half pound of butter is sufficient to serve at the table after using some for the mashed potatoes and some used with one of the lemons for meringue for the mince pie. The other half of the stalks is quartered and used with the oysters. Six cents buys cream enough for mashed potatoes and to serve with the coffee.

The market page of The Herald offers splendid suggestions in planning dinners, for by carefully going over the articles listed there one may select a well balanced dinner for a small expenditure, or from the same columns one may get up a really fine dinner. In this way all careful housekeepers may be benefited by its offerings.

I believe that a carefully selected dinner menu made up from the articles advertised with the cost itemized, appearing each day, might be an improvement to The Herald Market Bargain page.

Mrs. Cavanaugh quoted prices throughout her five menus, and says: "At the price offered on any one article the amount will be ample for four people. Figures include cost of gas for cooking, sugar and cream, butter, seasonings, etc."

"I think it would be an advantage to all housekeepers if there was a market page in The Herald each day quoting prices from the different firms each day for the following day. In that way the housewife would be offered suggestions for menus which she probably would not have thought of if she did not read the evening paper. Also think that she would buy enough more to pay the firm for their extra advertising."

Wild Game Appears In the Market

Hunters Bringing in Geese and Ducks for Local Markets; Turkeys Survive
Thanksgiving and Fatten for Christmas.

WILD game is on the market in limited quantities. Mallard ducks may be had for 50 cents each, while the small teal ducks bring 25 cents.

Turkeys are continuing at 25 cents a pound, dressed, and the marketmen expect this price to remain through the Christmas and New Year holidays. Geese and ducks are also in good supply for the holiday feasts. They sell at 27 1/2 cents a pound dressed. Cottontail rabbits are plentiful, the large ones are selling at 30 cents each and the smaller animals bring 15 cents.
